

On Sunday December 12th, skiers intentionally triggered these small wind-loaded slopes. They broke 10-18" deep and are indicative of the spotty nature of instability since they did not find anything similar on the upper mountain. Photo: Josh Gage

Advisory Region
Northern Gallatin
Longitude
-110.98W
Latitude
45.46N

Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Advisory for Tue Dec 14, 2010GNFAC Avalanche Advisory for Wed Dec 15, 2010

Northern Gallatin, 2010-12-14